DAILY EMPIRE. WINTER

EX BOX ERY SOUTHER. Though now no more the musing ear Delightens to listen to the breeze. That lingers o'er the greenwood shade, I love thee, winter well.

Sweet are the harmonies of spring, Sweet is, the summer evening gale, And aweet the summer evening gale, The many-color'd grove, And pleasant to the sober'd soul

The silence of the winary scope,
When nature shrouds herself, entranced,
In deep tranquility. Not undelightful now to rosm
The wild heath sparkling on the sight;
Not undelightful now to pace
The forest's ample rounds.

And see the spangled branches shine, And mark the moss of many a hue,
That varies the old tree's brown burk,
As a'er the grey stone spreads.

And mark the cluster'd berries bright, Amid the holly's gay green loaves; The ivy round the leafless oak That clasps the foliage close.

So virtue, diffident of atrength, Clings to religion's firmer aid, And by religion's aid upheld, Endures calamity.

Nor void of beauties now the spring, Whose waters, hid from summer sun, Have soothed the thirsty pilgrim's ear, With more than melody. The green mess shines with icy glare; The long grass bends its spear like form; And lovely is the silvery scene When faint the sunbeams smile.

Reflection, too, makes love the hour, When Nature, hid in winter's grave, No more expands the bursting bud, Or bids the flowret bloom.

For Nature soon is spring's best charms, Shall rise revived from winter's grave, Expand the bursting bud again, And bid the flower re-bloom.

which neutralizes this malacious poison in the blood, and stimulates the liver to expel it from the body. As it should, so it does ever this agflicitive disorder with perfect certainty. And it does more, or rather does what it of more service to those subject to this infection. It taken in season it expels it from the system as it is absorbed, and thus keeps those who use it free from its attacks; keeps the system in health although exposed to the disease. Consequently it not only cures, but protects from, the great variety of affections which are indused by this manignant influence, such as Remittont Fever, Chill fever, Durth, or Masked Agus, Periodical Haddache, or Blisous Headache, Billons Fevers, Neuralgia, Rheumalism, Gout, Bilionies, Tootmache, Earache, Catarth, Asthma, Palpitations, Palmid Affections of the Spiese, Hysteries, Colic, Parilysis, and Palmid Affections of the Stomach and howcit, all of which, when arising from this cause, will be found to assume more or leas the intermittent type. This "Ague Cene" removes the cause of these demagrements, and cures the disease.

This it accomplishes by stimulating the excretories to expel the virus from the system; and these organs by degrees become habited to do this their office of their own accord. Hence arises what we term exclusation. Time may accompiled the same end, but often life is not long enough, or is sacrificed in the attempt, while this "Ague great reason to believe this is a sure a well as it has still another important advantage to the public, which is, that it is cheap as well as good.
